Heavy Snow Lingers in the Northeast; Another Winter Storm Developing in the Central U.S.

Heavy snow from Upstate New York to Maine will slowly taper off from west to east today as a coastal storm moves away. Another winter storm is expected to develop over the southern Rockies and High Plains by tonight then shift into the Northeast U.S. through Thursday. Heavy snow and ice are forecast along and north of the storm's track with heavy rain and severe thunderstorms for the Deep South. Read More >
