Pisces Woman Traits, Romantic Matches, and Personality

By Sally Painter
Astrology and Tarot Reader

A Pisces woman is a complex and dreamy creature. Her empathy is all-powerful, and it makes her the most likely confidant when a friend or even a stranger has a problem.

Personality Traits of a Pisces Woman

Pisces feels things other people never can because of the depth of her emotional nature. The fish swims in deep and shallow waters. Those waters are as endless as her emotions. She sees and feels things that go beneath life's surface like the mysteries and secrets that elude many seekers. This innate ability gives Pisces a unique perspective of every day happenings, but it also causes her anguish since so few people understand her in-depth perception of life. It's no wonder others constantly seek her advice and counsel.

She's a Humanitarian

It's not surprising to find a Pisces woman in a humanitarian service career. Her need to reach out to others in want and pain draws her to careers where she can be of service. It may take her a while to figure out her life path since she is the receiver of a world of possibilities, but eventually she'll find her place and excel in whatever she undertakes. Even if her job isn't one of serving others directly, her extracurricular activities definitely will. Her need to help others must be expressed.

A Cancer or Scorpio is the best romantic love match for a Pisces woman. These two water signs have a better understanding of her mood swings and sensitivity. Another Pisces might not be a good match since the challenges Pisces faces will be doubled. The relationship could either be a great match or a tragic one. Earth signs Taurus, Virgo, and Capricorn complement her and provide her a safe haven sheltered from some of the influences which she might not recognize are depleting her energy and emotions. Earth signs are great protectors of the fish and can provide form and structure to an otherwise fluid environment.

Understanding a Pisces Woman's Characteristics

No one fully understands a Pisces woman. You only get a glimpse of what she wants you to see and hides the rest from your curious eyes. She may be chatty one moment, and then silent and withdrawn the next. When hurt, she may retreat into the cold depths of her pain, but her forgiving nature will see her back to her warm self soon enough. Pisces doesn't hold grudges, even if she wanted to, her fluid nature defies such blocking of channels vital to her very existence.

Her Non-Verbal Communication Is Important

Just remember that her sensitivity to gestures and all those little things communicated without words are more important to her than anything you might say. Your actions are what she'll believe, not your words, so be careful how you treat her. If you bestow her with love and respect, honor her feelings and the many things she does for you, you'll have a long-lasting relationship that can withstand any tests tossed your way.

She's Vulnerable Yet Resourceful

At first glance, it may appear that Pisces is too soft and feminine to fend for herself, but that assumption is an illusion, just like the dreamy world where she often escapes. Pisces has a deep well of personal strength, resilience and
